JANESVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16.

STATE OF WISCONSIN.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In conformity with law, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do designate

Wednesday, April 30th Next,

as Arbor Day, and recommend that all public schools and colleges of the state observe the same by suitable exercises, "having for their object the imparting of knowledge of horticulture, in the department known as arboriculture, and the adornment of schools and public grounds."

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the great seal of the state of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the capitol, in the city of Madison, this 15th day of March, A. D. 1890.

GREAT SEAL

WILLIAM D. HOARD.

By the Governor:

ERNST G. TIMME, Secretary of State.

GOVERNOR HOARD AND HIS FIGURES.

When Governor Hoard made his noted address on the school question at Waukesha, he made the statement that there were about 50,000 children in the state between the ages of 7 and 14 who did not attend school last year. The Rev. John Schlerf, of Milwaukee, secretary of the committee on school legislation, of the Wisconsin German Lutheran synod, denies the authenticity of the governor's figures, and concludes from a queer system of calculation that there are less than 6 000 children in the state who attended no school last year. The governor answers Mr. Schlerf in substance as follows:

Reliable statistics from official sources show that 75,979 children between 7 and 14 did not attend the public schools at all. Of the number attending school 4,679 pupils from the German Lutheran parochial schools are included. This leaves 15,715 to be deducted from 73,979 of nonattendants on the public schools—leaving 58 264. If the same percentage of pupils from the Catholic schools, attended the public schools my statistics of those who do not attend any schools, should be increased instead of decreased. Of the 73 979 children between 7 and 14, who did not attend the public schools, Mr. Schlef, by increasing Mr. Koerner's figures on the number of pupils in the German Luthern schools a couple of thousand, accounts for 58,000 as being in private schools, or unable by reason of disability to attend any school. Of this number 2,000 are supposed to be in Scandinavian schools, which is entirely erroneous, as nearly all of the Scandinavian parochial schools are only open during the vacation of the public schools, and their number is included in the statistics of those attending public schools.

"It is believed that 90 per cent of the pupils who for a portion of the year attend the Catholic parochial schools also attend for a portion of the year the public schools, and are included in the census as so attending. If this is true, and I have no reason to doubt it until convinced to the contrary, Mr. Schlerf's table of suppositions should be something like this:

Children in parochial school's (not included in public school enrollment) (Catholic)	14,000
Children in parochial schools (not included in public school enrollment) (Luth-ran)	15,000
Incapable of attending schools	2,000
In non-sectarian schools	2,000
Total	33,000

Leaving about 40,000 who had not attended any school. It is also believed that a larger percentage of the German-Lutheran children are enrolled in the public school attendance than Mr. Koerner estimates. Whether the number be 1,000 or 100,000, is not the question. It is whether any of our youth are being deprived of that education necessary to qualify them for good citizenship. If there be the child thus deprived, it is the duty of the state to see that a remedy is supplied."

THE CORRECT FIGURES.

"I do not think these figures are far from correct. Since I delivered my Waukesha address, I have been furnished statistics from the state superintendent as follows:

Number of children in state between 7 and 14	234,136
Number attending public schools 12 weeks or more	210,057
Leaving	73,979
Number attending private schools 12 weeks or more	23,570
Number not attending any school	38,419

"The above statistics relate to that portion of school age population, which the Bennett law deals with exclusively, to-wit, between 7 and 14 years of age. The statistics of Mr. Koerner relate to attendants of all ages. Until these are separated they have no relevancy to the question. The statistics above are obtained by direct inquiry of parents, by persons taking census, who are required to ascertain these facts, as well as the name and age of each child, and the name of parent or guardian. In the statistics quoted from private and unverified sources there is nothing to indicate the method of enrollment of a large class who are advanced in classification, and enrolled in more than one department.

Governor Hoard is fair enouge to say that it is all right for Germans to be loyal to their mother language, and that no true American would object to this, but on the other hand the Germans should learn enough of English to make them useful citizen, and useful to themselves, which they cannot be without some knowledge of the common language of the country. On another point the governor says: "Mr. Schlerf is a very loose reasoner. He says that if my figures are true then 'every sixth child in the commonwealth would have to be classed an illiterate.' He should have said: 'Every sixth child between the ages of 7 and 14,' the total number of school-age between 4 and 20 in 1888 was 567,702. He will only have to travel into Jefferson county to find one district with an enrollment of 96 and only eight attending school. In another with an enrollment of 98, and only seventeen attending school The facts have just begun to come in."

The Seebote serves notice on the democratic party that it must make the issue against the school law at the next election. It says: "We do not hesitate to declare that we would call a third party, an anti Bennett law party, into life in case the democratic convention should disregard this demand." Menaced by Mr. Deuster's third party, the democrats can be relied upon to oppose any law which requires children in this state to be taught the English language.—Sentinel.

It will frighten the democratic leaders out of their wits if they should be compelled to face the music on the Bennett law. The leaders have done much crawfishing or facing both ways on public question that they do not know how it seems to be aggressive or courageous in confronting a great issue, so that the democracy will be placed in a pitiable condition if the Seebote shall insist on bringing it up standing on the Bennett law when the convention meets. The leaders will certainly take to the woods if squareness shall be demanded by the enemies of the Bennett law.

A BOLD SWINDLE.

Recently there has been mailed to many persons in the west a printed circular, of a "strictly confidential" character, giving information in a general way, how a person can become rich by complying with the terms therein given. Agents are wanted to "handle my goods," and a "golden opportunity" is held out to the right kind of people to establish themselves in a successful business. The schemers are supposed to live in New Jersey, and they will do no business with any one by mail. No letters will be received or opened. The telegraph only is used in correspondence. Special instruction is given in regard to the sending of dispatches, and the following is an exact copy of the telegram one must send if he proposes to deal with the unknown persons:

"G W Grace—MATAWAN STATION, MATAWAN, New Jersey:
"Mr. Franks was not here."

To this is added, of course, the name of the person who wishes to become rich on a few hundred dollars.

Just what "my goods" are is not known to the innocent man who is seeking an easy road to wealth, but the terms of purchase are cash down, with the following inducements: The person or persons wishing to deal with these generous people in New Jersey, must go to Matawan Station, and report in person, and if they are poor a liberal allowance will be made them for travelling expenses. "My goods" are first class, says the circular, and the prices are as follows: Three hundred and fifty dollars brings $4,000 of the goods; $650 buys $13,500 worth; and $1,000 buys $21,000 worth.

The instructions, upon which great stress is laid, are these:

1. Don't as long as you live write me a letter, for it will not be received.

2. If you wish to come to me, send a telegram as per copy enclosed. Telegrams only received.

3. On receipt of your telegram I will send you full instructions how to meet me and what hotel to stop at. Don't come, under no circumstances, without first telegraphing.

4. If you haven't the $350, or more, don't come at all, and let the matter drop.

The impression which this circular is designed to make is that the unknown person is dealing in bogus United States bonds and treasury notes, made from plates obtained in the treasury department, and which are so thoroughly good in appearance that they will deceive the best banks in the country. But this is misleading. The person whose "goods" are first class, is not dealing in counterfeit bonds. It is said to be a scheme to entice innocent persons in the neighborhood of Matawan Station, and then rob them of their money. This is the avowed intention of the person or persons issuing the circular, and the success of the robbery is an assured fact for the stranger going there is known to have money in his pocket, and when he is robbed he is not in a condition to "squeal" for he cannot do this without confessing that his business there was to become a party to the uttering of counterfeit money; and so rather than complain against the robbers and make himself liable to prosecution, he will keep quiet, and return home a wiser but a sadder man.

Our genial friend Mayor Peck, does not find the official pillow an easy one for the head to lie on. A dispatch from Milwaukee says that his appointments have raised a howl among the Irish, who had expected at least one appointment to a salaried office, but they were entirely ignored. "This is a slap in the face which the Irish shall remember for Peck if he ever comes up for a public office again," said a prominent Irishman to-night. "And his appointments look much as though he was a ready laying his wires for a second term, if not for governor. He has simply sacrificed the Irish to attempt to hold the German vote and particularly the Lutheran support."

The old state sovereignty dogma which was the faith of the rebellious south, is the faith of Fuller and Lamar on the supreme bench, as shown by their decision in the Nagle-Terry case. It is strange that a democrat can't get on the supreme bench of the United States without espousing one of the principles that led the south to rebel.

It is reported from Madison that the members of the supreme court deny writing any letter to President Albee, of Oshkosh, to the effect that the bible can still be read in public schools.

The member of the ways and means committee who cannot be seduced by trusts, syndicates or monopolies, but will stand firm for the people, will read his title clear to another term.

POETRY FROM MR. VANCE.

THE SENATOR PRODUCES A RYTHMICAL TELEGRAM.

Further Debate on the Montana Election Contest—Other News from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Senate, after the transacting of routine business, resumed the consideration of the Montana election case, Senator Morgan of Alabama taking the floor in favor of Clark and Maginnis.

Senator Hawley of Connecticut, gave notice that he would call up the world's fair bill for discussion Friday.

Among the petitions presented and referred was one by Mr. Dawes, from the Boston Executive Business Association, for the privilege of purchasing ships abroad for ten years.

Among the bills reported from the committee and placed on the calendar were the following:

Providing for the return of second-class mail matter; Senate bill to allow the State of California to make certain grants to educational institutions.

Mr. Sherman offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the Secretary of the Interior to communicate to the Senate the report of Jesse Spalding, government director of the Pacific railways, as to the general management of such railways.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to whether, since the adoption of the Treasury regulation of September 28, 1889, in reference to the transit of Chinese through the country, and their departure therefrom, any Chinese entered for transit under such regulation has failed to depart from the United States in due course.

Mr. Butler offered a resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses modifying one hitherto agreed to, as to authorize the select committee on the five civilized Indian tribes to investigate the status of the negotiations in regard to the Cherokee outlet, with power to send for persons and papers and to visit the Indian Territory.

In connection with the resolution, he sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter from Chief Mayes, urging that that course be adopted, while Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, intimated that the object of Chief Mayes was procrastination.

The Montana Senatorial election case was taken up, the debate being opened by Mr. Morgan. He alluded to the late Democratic victory in the town of Butte, which contains the precinct (Thirty-fourth) where the principal trouble originated out of which the present contest grew.

Mr. Daniel also argued against the majority report and yielded to Mr. Vance, who brought down the house by reading the following dispatch from Montana, which he said he received at 2 o clock this morning.

"Hurrah for honest citizens, who vindicate the right;
Hurrah for law and liberty! The people won the fight.
Republican corruptionist went, weeping to their fate;
For the voters placed the ban upon the man who stole the State.
The mourners speak in whispers; there's crape upon the door.
The g. o. p. was killed by stealing precinct Thirty-four."

Mr. Hoar said that, as he understood the facts, the Democratic majority in Butte, which a year ago was 800, had been reduced to about 250, and that at precinct 34 there was not a single vote left. All of those apparent voters had gone, like a last year's snow-bank. He left his friend from North Carolina to his comic almanac.

Mr. Vance—The Senator from Massachusetts derives as much comfort out of small material as any Senator on this floor. My information is entirely different. The city of Butte gave a Republican majority last year, and there has been a great "turn-over" in consequence of "subsequent proceedings."

Mr. Hoar—If the Senator had been in bed at 2 o'clock last night his idea would have been clearer this morning [Laughter].

The House.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—After the reading of the journal, Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, called up the Naval Appropriation bill, the pending question being upon the amendment adopted in committee of the whole striking out the clause providing for the construction of three coast line battle ships. The action of the committee was rejected—yeas, 104, nays 132.

The bill was then passed.

The House also passed a bill defining the jurisdiction of the United States courts. This bill confers original jurisdiction in federal cases on the district courts and practically makes appellate tribunals of the the circuit courts.

HIS LIFE WITHOUT BLEMISH.

Tribute of the House Appropriations Committee to Samuel J. Randall.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The House committee on appropriations at a special meeting adopted the following tribute to the memory of the late Representative Randall, submitted by Representative Breckinridge of Kentucky:

"Upon organization of the House of Representatives of the Forty-fourth Congress Samuel J. Randall was assigned to the chairmanship of this committee and won in a single session of his service as such chairman the highest reputation. Under his personal influence and leadership the annual expenditures of the government were reduced nearly $30,000,000, not only without impairing the efficiency of any bureau or department but actually to the betterment of the public service. This single statement demonstrates the very great qualities which he must have possessed to have accomplished such results. He brought to the discharge of his duties the experience of twelve years' service in the House, an unfailing resolution, an intrepid will, great and unflagging industry, and an aggressive and spotless integrity.

"It is perhaps not saying too much that the action of Mr. Randall as the chairman of this committee in the first session of the Forty-fourth Congress gave vigor and hope to the Democratic party and exposed to the Republican party the dangers which confronted it. His services as Speaker of the Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth Congresses exhibited the same intrepid courage, the same mastery of details and personal integrity.

"As chairman of this committee in the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, and Fiftieth Congresses he preserved in the House its control of the public purse, its supervisory powers over the expenditures of the country, and its proper influence in our government of checks and balances.

"During all the years in which he served as Representative and as a member of this committee there never for one moment was the slightest suspicion that he was in any way connected with any job. Absolutely pure in his personal and pecuniary relations, he could afford to do many things and to subject himself to much opposition which otherwise would have been impossible. He and all the world knew he was invulnerable to any personal attack.

"Intensely partisan as he was in his nature, his convictions, and his hopes, he never permitted any difference of political opinions to invade the personal relations which he bore to his colleagues on this committee, nor to color his sense of justice to those with whom he served. Indeed, his sense of duty to the country and the government always controlled him as chairman of this committee. He believed that it was to the interest of the common people, without regard to party, that the expenditure should be kept within the necessities of the government and that all reform was based upon a strict economy.

"It is therefore but the severest justice that we, who were his colleagues and who are called to perform the duties which were assigned to him, should put on record our admiration for the qualities which he exhibited in this position, for the conspicious and increased power which he gave to this committee, and our personal affection for him. To some who have been associated with him around this table for years his death is a grevious sorrow; to all it is a personal loss."

CUTTING THE PRICE OF TWINE.

Manufacturers Engage in a War Which Will Be Approved by Farmers.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, April 16.—Yesterday there was held in this city a secret meeting of the men interested in the bind-twine business. There were present the members of the Plano Manufacturing Company, J. P. McCormick, of Chicago, and others.

It appeared that the price of twine had been cut by Hoover & Gamble, of Chicago. As a result the Plano Manufacturing Company will send out 185 traveling representatives at once. They will be distributed throughout the grain producing regions, and the twine that they were selling yesterday at 14½ cents will be put on the market at 13¼ cents.

This is the lowest price yet, and it is thought that the cut will be the means of forcing the Chicago men into the trust or driving them out of business. The reduced scale will apply in Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and, in fact, all the grain producing states.

CASABIANCA IN PETTICOATS.

A Domestic Refuses to Leave the Burning House of Her Employer.

PEORIA, Ill., April 16.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the residence of N. W. Matthews, a banker of this city, was destroyed by fire, and Alice Donovan, a pretty hired girl who was alone in the house, was barely rescued by one of the firemen.

She had been left in charge of the house, and when it took fire refused to leave it, although called upon by those on the outside of the burning building to do so. At last one of the firemen, at the risk of his life, rushed in and dragged her by main force through the flames and smoke to the open air.

The girl was seized with hysterics and may die. The house was valued at $5,000 and was a total loss, together with the furniture it contained.

ERICKSON FEARS HIS DUPES

The "Doom Sealer" Excuses Himself and Lays the Blame on the Lord.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 16.—Erickson, the crazy prophet, dies hard. He insisted Monday that the time for the tidal wave must be extended to mid night, but now he declares the destruction will come soon, and warns his followers not to abandon the hill-tops until he gets fresh revelation.

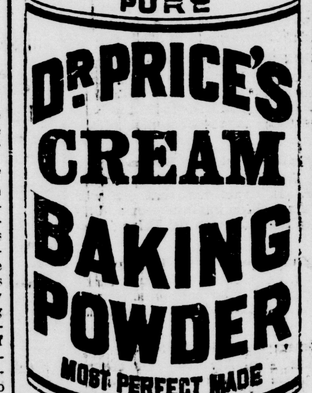
Erickson fears the consequences to himself as a false prophet, and says such a prophet ought to be killed, but excuses himself by saying, "God made a mistake in the date," and cites the old testament story of the destruction of Nineveh. Many of his followers are returning to-day, but it is probable that the majority will remain in the hills a few days longer, as they fear the ridicule of friends.

ANDREW GROSSE'S SUICIDE.

An Old Soldier Kills Himself at Coldwater, Mich.

COLDWATER, Mich., April 16.—Andrew Grosse killed himself about 8 o'clock this morning with a charge from a double-barreled shot-gun. The charge entered his right temple.

He was talking cheerfully with his family a few minutes before the deed was committed. He was quartermaster of Loomis' battery for three years during the Rebellion. He was 78 years old and had been here thirty-five years.



Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in cans.

"The mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly small."

Our work on Riverview Park has not been done slowly, and yet the work has not been done small.

We are IN the Forest Park deal. We have arranged with our associates to manage the property. We shall put into it some of our best work, and shall from time to time write and talk about it.

Not forgetting a word about our new Glen-Etta, this is the key stone between Forest Park and Riverview and with the two makes our "holdings" and handling" in this "garden of Homesites a full 100 acres.

In Riverview we have but a few lots left that we will sell. There are forces at work why Riverview Home Sites will be much higher a month hence than now. Why not "come in" now.

In Forest Park we have beautiful lots and prices and terms are exactly right. You can make no error in buying here now. The prices are SURE to be higher. Our associates and we have plans in hand that will surely advance.

Look out for our "ads" during the next few months, we shall say much of interest regarding "Forest," "Riverview" and Glen Etta.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

ADVERTISERS READ THIS, and after you have read it, think it over. Anything that concerns your business is of interest to you. We do not ask you to advertise in our paper, nor in any other papers; we only state the fact that success in advertising depends like any other success in knowing how to do it. Experience is a mighty good thing, but then, you are not to try the 16,000 and odd papers published in this country, for if you do you will sack your safe before you know the a. b. c. of the science of advertising, for science it is, the advertising on a large or small scale. It is more economic, more profitable, and a great deal wiser to ascertain yourself which paper or set of papers will bring the best result for the same amount of money. The PRINTERS' INK is the paper in which you will learn the long and short of the story. It has no interest in having your 'ad.' in one paper rather than another. It is independent, well informed and truthful. If you advertise at all, whether for one dollar, or for one thousand, or for one million of dollars a year, you will miss your road if, not knowing it you do not inquire of the advertiser's guide, and thinking you know it, you take a sinuous pathway and get at the goal at the eve of death. We will send the PRINTERS' INK and the "Daily Gazette," to any advertiser who will prove himself to be such, for one year, for the price of one: that is for six dollars. Address:

TRACKED DOWN AT LAST.

ARREST OF TWO MEN IN CALIFORNIA FOR MURDER.

Their Capture Relates to a Season of Terror in Iowa in 1884—Other Criminal News.

ELDORA, Iowa, April 16.—Detective J. C. Burke has arrived in this city with Charles Marx and James Rice, whom he had arrested in Visalia, Cal., on the charge of murdering Henry Johns, the wealthy land owner, of this county, in 1885. Henry Johns was a brother-in-law of the Rainsbarger brothers, and was a millionaire. While returning home from Eldora one night in May, 1885, he was waylaid and murdered. Suspicion at once rested on the Rainsbargers, but as no evidence developed detectives were employed, and rewards were offered by the State and by the window.

After a hard chase and six years of shadowing Detective Burke has captured his men. The nature of the evidence against them has not as yet been made public, but great excitement and interest have been awakened. These arrests recall a series of crimes that were committed in this vicinity, for which two men are serving life sentences and two others fell victims of vigilantes. The two men who are now in jail at this place were formerly residents of the county and one of them was a well-to-do farmer.

The first of a long series of murders was committed in the fall of 1884, when Enoch Johnson, an old counterfeiter, was killed in a ravine a short distance from Eldora. It was at first supposed that he had killed himself, but after some investigation Nate and Frank Rainsbarger were arrested for the murder, and afterward sentenced to prison for life. Shortly afterward Henry Johns, the wealthy farmer, was murdered while returning home at midnight. He was within forty rods of his own house when the deed was done.

Suspicion at once pointed to the remaining Rainsbargers—Nance, Finn, and William, who still lived at Steamboat Rock. No arrests were made at the time, but Mrs. Henry Johns, a sister of the Rainsbargers, used all her influence and money in their behalf, besides offering a large reward for the capture of the murderers of her husband. The State of Iowa also offered a reward of $500. In June of the same year, while Dr. R. M. Underwood and G. H. Ritenour were passing a lonely spot in the woods, they were fired upon and barely escaped with their lives. Next day the officers arrested Nance, William, and Finn Rainsbarger as the parties who did the shooting.

William gave a satisfactory bond and remained at home, the other two boys being confined in the Eldora jail. That evening they were both killed by a vigilance committee, the leader or the members of which have never been known. At the funeral of the dead Rainsbargers Lincoln Johns, son of Henry, declared in open speech that the murderer of his father was at that funeral and he would have revenge.

The excitement gradually died down, but detectives have been at work and have finally arrested the two men brought here yesterday. The trial of these men, it is expected will develop some very interesting evidence regarding the killing of Johns, and will also expose the gang of counterfeiters and the mob of lynchers who broke into the jail at Eldora in 1885. The two brothers who murdered Enoch Johnson are serving a life sentence at the Fort Madison penitentiary, and the only remaining brother lives at Steamboat Rock, where he makes a comfortable living by farming. The sons of Henry Johns are living in Nebraska.

CLEARING UP A MYSTERY.

Developments in a Sensational Missouri Murder Case.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 16.—J. L. Shimar, a private detective, has just been brought to this city from Springfield, Mo., on a warrant charging him with the murder of W. C. Wrightman, a wealthy grocer of Schell City, Mo., who came here in November, 1886, during the real estate boom to purchase options.

A chain of circumstantial evidence has been weaving around Shimar for the past four years. On Nov. 6, 1889, the skeleton of a man was found below the Randolph bridge on the river with a bullet hole through the back of the coat that was still on it. From the clothing and hair relatives recognized the body to be Wrightman's.

A nephew of the missing man, an attorney of Springfield, has been working upon the case, and he tells a sensational story. Two real estate men took Wrightman down on the bank of the river to look at some property and that was the last seen of him.

Makes a Business of Starting Fires.

DENVER, Col., April 16.—Frank Holden is under arrest at Coal Creek, this State, charged with arson, and from the circumstantial evidence against him he appears to be a professional firebug. He was at Colorado Springs when a serious fire occurred, and was in Florence two nights, on each of which there were fires. Holden went to Coal Creek Sunday afternoon, and though the police were on the watch he eluded them and the destruction of the public school building followed.

Pardoned After His Release.

JOLIET, Ill., April 16.—Two pardons were received at the Joliet prison yesterday, signed by the Governor, for the release of John Gehm and Charles D. Cameron. Gehm was on hand and ready to be released, but Cameron was not. The funny part of it is that Cameron had served his term and been restored to liberty four weeks ago. The pardon was issued April 10.

A 14-Year-Old Murderer.

OMAHA, Neb., April 16.—Fred Radzuweit was stabbed and instantly killed at Armour & Cudahy's packing house in South Omaha yesterday afternoon by Anton Zramek, a fellow employe. Zramek is only 14 years old. He says Radzuweit was about to strike him with a pitchfork when he stabbed him. The murderer is under arrest.

HONORED MRS. BLOOMER.

Golden Wedding of a Woman Who Originated a Famous Costume.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, April 16.—Yesterday was celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of D. C. and Amelia Bloomer and the thirtieth anniversary of their residence in this city. Four hundred invitations were issued and to nearly all there was a personal response.

Several sent regrets, among them Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Gov. Hale of Wyoming. The reception was one of the most brilliant assemblages ever seen in the city. Bodies from the St. Paul's Episcopal church, the veteran lodge of Odd Fellows and other societies, were present and many worthy gifts were presented. Rev. G. W. Croft, the poet preacher, sent a poem.

Mr. Bloomer is one of the pioneer lawyers and legislators of the State, and has now reached his seventy-fourth year. Mrs. Bloomer is seventy-two years old. She was a member of the first Woman's Rights convention ever held and originated the costume that bears her name.

REVISION WILL CARRY.

Indications That Two-Thirds of the Presbyteries Favor a Change.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Returns of the vote of 126 presbyteries of the Presbyterian church on revision of the "Confession of Faith" show that eighty-two have voted in favor of revision, forty against, and four have refused to vote. There are yet eighty-six to be heard from, and the indications are that the vote in favor of revision will be nearly, if not quite, two-thirds of all the presbyteries.

Suits Against Liquor Sellers.

CRESTON, Iowa, April 16.—Damage suits were commenced in the Superior court at Creston against Mike Welsh, Rube Dillon, Charley Ohlschlager, B. L. Leonard and Charley and Windfield Hall, the amount claimed in each case being $5,000. The plaintiff, Alice Morrison, alleges that the defendants sold liquor to her husband, causing his intoxication and loss of employment.

Court Physicians Unable to Prolong His Life—Other News from Beyond the Sea.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Edmund Yates' London cable to the Tribune says: "The Queen leaves Aix-les-Bains Thursday night and will arrive at Darmstadt Friday afternoon. The same apartments have been prepared in Schloss for Her Majesty's occupation by the Grand Duke of Hesse as she occupied in 1884 and 1885. Emperor William is expected at Darmstadt Sunday morning for a stay of thirty-six hours, and Empress Frederick is to arrive from Hamburg that day and will remain until after the Queen's departure.

"The Prince of Wales has accepted an invitation from Emperor William to attend the German naval maneuvers off Holstein coast at the beginning of September.

"Private accounts from The Hague report that the King of the Netherlands is in such a precarious state that he may die at any moment, and, in fact, every preparation has been quietly made there in anticipation of his majesty's demise. All State business is now transacted with the Ministers by Queen Emma, as the King is practically an imbecile and it is impossible that he will long survive in his present condition of mental and physical decrepitude. The court physicians are astonished that the King has lasted so long.

"The Empress of Austria is building herself a magnificent Pompeian palace at Corfu, which will have cost nearly £500,000 by the time it is ready for occupation. It is on a charming site on top of Stepp hill and is being constructed of marble brought from Carrara, while the interior is to be decorated out in terraces with fountains, and both house and grounds will be illuminated by electricity.

"The income of the late Junius S. Morgan at the time of his death is said to have been over £300,000 a year. He had long retired from active business, but still went to the city during the week and took the keenest interest in the great house which he and Mr. Peabody founded. One of the largest bits of business his house ever undertook was the advancing to the French government during the Franco-German war of £200,000,000, which, bearing interest at 6 per cent, was repaid after peace was concluded."

CAPRIVI TO THE FRONT.

His Pacific Speech on Opening the Prussian Diet.

BERLIN, April 16.—The Prussian Diet was opened by Chancellor Von Caprivi. In his speech he said:

"It is not my intention to state the government's program, but having hitherto held aloof from political life, I now wish to speak to you a few words in order to approach you personally." [Cheers.] The Chancellor then referred to the important position which had been held by Prince Bismarck, and expressed the hope that in the future the empire would continue secure. The edifice of state, he said, was cemented firmly enough to resist wind and weather. Moreover, the noble personality of the young monarch had already manifested itself at home and abroad. He affirmed his undying belief in the future of Prussia and the German Empire resting on Prussia's shoulders. Both for a long time to come would be a historical necessity. Both could anticipate the future full of hope. The Emperor had said that his course would remain the same. The inauguration of a new era was therefore not to be expected, although a more harmonious solidarity would be manifest among the members of the Diet.

In conclusion the Chancellor said he would allow the widest scope to practical criticism and would adopt what was good wherever it was found. He would co-operate with all persons having at heart the interests of Prussia and aiming to foster the monarchic feeling in Prussia and the national feeling throughout the Empire. [Cheers.]

HURLED INTO ETERNITY.

Two Men Killed by the Bursting of a Boiler in a Sawmill.

GLADWIN, Mich., April 16.—A fatal accident occurred some miles southeast of this place yesterday afternoon. The boiler in Ozeman's sawmill exploded, completely wrecking the mill and instantly killing H. M. Corey, the engineer, and Aaron Corey, his son, who was acting as fireman.

The explosion was violent and the noise was heard for miles around, while the ground over a large area of country was shaken as by an earthquake. Pieces of the boiler were thrown many rods, and the absence of workmen alone, prevented a greater loss of life.

The men killed were badly mutilated, and as they had charge of the boilers it is impossible to tell the cause of the explosion. Engineer Corey was a prominent Grand Army man, and leaves a large family.

What is a mercantile "discount?"

When a merchant buys goods of a wholesaler in the great city, he secures a reduction or 'discount' from the bill, of from 5 to 25 per cent., according to the kind of goods he is buying and the margin of profit there is in them—IF HE PAYS CASH DOWN.

If he cannot pay cash down but remits in 10 days, he receives almost as much discount; if he pay not till 30 days, he receives still less discount, and if he pay not till 60 days he receives none. So the thriving merchant discounts every bill as it comes. But to do so he must have ready cash, and he can get it only as he receives it from customers, or as he loans it to himself as working capital. If all paid cash, they would furnish the merchant the ready money to take every discount; and just so far as they do not pay cash, in just so far they compel the merchant to advance himself the money to pay his bills, which money he could put out at interest, and earn 6, 7 or 8 per cent. on the loan.

We have now gone to the a-b-c of explanation of the discount business and why all merchants desire to change credit custom to cash trade. While it would be simple JUSTICE, yet they can not have two prices—one for credit and a lower one for cash; this would lead to ill-will, they must name the same price to all alike, and then, not as a gift or a present but simply because it is deserved, they can make a favoring discrimination to the cash buyer.

Some of your merchants have made large purchases and special contracts for the great Encyclopædia Britaunica, and propose to give to each cash buyer this work. They do not pretend to be "giving something for nothing"—such a statement would be false on its face; they are simply paying back to each customer HIS SHARE of the discounts, in a commodity bought three times cheaper than any of you, buying singly, could get it. This is the philosophy and plan on which Messrs. Burns & Boland and A. C. Munger are enabled to offer an exact reproduction, page, word and letter, uncondensed and unabridged latest revision of the great Encyclopedia—a faithful copy of the $216 Edinburgh edition, more durably bound than any book (save the Teacher's Bibles) to-day in your town.

They also have secured the exclusive privilege of sale, at a price which will astound you. Come and see.

ONLY A WORD.

Only a word his lips let fall,
A careless word in wanton play
He did not think of it at all
And idly went upon his way.

But in a heart with sorrow sore
The cruel gibe produced its smart,
And what he never thought of more
Convulsed a crushed and bleeding heart.

Only a word another spoke—
A simple word lit by a smile—
And mental clouds their darkness broke
Which shadowed all the clouds erewhile.

A life which hope had seemed to leave
Grew stronger from its generous might—
A heart bowed down with utter grief
Felt the rare radiance of its light.

The future rose serene and fair
And sorrow lost its bitter sting;
A single word, though light as air,
May seem a very little thing.

But hope, joy, sorrow, and despair
By it in human hearts are stirred;
There is no thing more foul or fair
Than one slight utterance of a word.
—JOEL BENTON in Youth's Companion.

MAY-WINE.

Uncle Florent, familiarly known as "Uncle Flo," was a bachelor of 50 or 52 years of age, but hale and well-preserved. He had broad shoulders, a fresh complexion, a "pepper and salt" beard, and thick, chestnut-colored hair, which was but slightly sprinkled with gray.

His only relatives were two nieces, whose guardian he had been. Both of these he had married, one to Grodard, a manufacturer of printed calicoes, and the other to your humble servant. Their dowries were small, but we knew that they would inherit from their uncle, and that the inheritance would be a large one, for he lived very economically in his country home. He had for his housekeeper a widow about 30 years of age. We were a little anxious at first about Mme. Rose, for she was a plump, fresh-looking creature, and seemed quite capable of charming the old man, but the better we knew Uncle Flo the more consoled we felt, for he was evidently a woman-hater in theory and practice, and was always timid and awkward in the presence of women.

Uncle Flo's pet hobby was the pursuit of literature; he was consumed with a desire to become an author. He was already a learned botanist and horticulturist, and had written two pamphlets in his best hand on official paper. One of these was a "A Treatise on Pruning Apple Trees and Pear Trees," and the other "A Monograph of the Asperula Odorata." He was most anxious to publish these works, but, being very parsimonious, wished to do it without opening his own purse; and at last his vanity and meanness combined hit upon an ingenious plan by which the manuscript could be printed at small expense to himself. He was a member of an archæological and horticultural society, and at one of the meetings he read his two pamphlets with such spirit that he took the whole society by storm. His colleagues declared that his treatise on pruning pear trees was full of new and original ideas, and that the monograph of the asperula opened hitherto unsuspected fields for the utilization of that forest plant. In short, they voted unanimously for the publication of the treatises at the expense of the society. Soon after the work arrived fresh from the printer of the county seat, and the author received fifty copies bound in salmon-color and bearing an imposing announcement on the title page.

Uncle Flo could hardly contain himself for delight. Every day he was seen striding proudly about the streets carrying a bundle of his precious books, ringing at the doors of the most important personages of the place, and handing in at each house a copy of his work, with the fly-leaf ornamented with a pompous inscription.

Of course we, his nephews, were not forgotten during this distribution; indeed, I think we were the greatest sufferers of all by his mania, for he invited himself to dinner with us on purpose to read his book to us at dessert, without missing a line. We, however, resigned ourselves to this trial, for we thought the fortune we were to inherit from the good man was well worth a few tedious hours. I must confess, though, that he took advantage of the situation. At the end of a month we knew the "Pruning of Pear Tees" by heart, and as to the "Monograph of the Asperula," we were so saturated with it that it haunted us in our dreams.

This asperula odorata is a small forest plant with white flowers, which blooms in May. The country people make of it a fragrant beverage, which they call May-wine, and Uncle Flo claimed and proved that this was the identical liquor on which Odin regaled his warriors in the Walhalla.

The feast of St. Florent, our uncle's patron, came in May, and I conceived a brilliant plan, which I hastened to unfold to Grodard, my brother-in-law.

"The woods are white with asperula blossoms," I said, "let us gather some, make some May-wine, and give it to Uncle Flo to drink on his birthday. It would be a great surprise and a very delicate attention."

It was no sooner said than done.

On the eve of St. Florent's day we started for the forest of Massonges and brought back an armful of asperula, and my wife steeped the flowers in chablis of the first quality, and the next day we served it up triumphantly, together with birthday-cake.

"Why, what's this?" said Uncle Flo, examining the wine-glass which had just been filled for him.

"It is May-wine, uncle," I explained "made from your own recepe, and we are now going to drink to your health."

Uncle Flo was rather taken back by this announcement, but the self-love of the author made him greedy, and he drained his glass and asked for more. He declared that this old Teutonic liquor had a delicious "bouquet" and that it tasted of the springtime, and before long he had emptied the bottle and was singing uproarously.

Toward dusk he went home, still humming gaily, and found his housekeeper busily hemming table-napkins. It was a warm night, his brain was befogged by asperula wine, Mme. Rose was very comely in a thin, light dress, and looked as fresh as a ripe peach. Uncle Flo suddenly lost his wonted timidity and became complimentary, and the young widow, at first merely amused, soon perceived her oportunity and proceeded to yield her heart and hand to the demi-centenarian rejuvenated for the time-being by that accursed May-wine.

At least, we suppose the catastrophe came about in this manner, for from that memorable day a change was observable in the housekeeper's bearing, and before many weeks passed she and Uncle Flo were married by the Mayor.

Worst of all, before another St. Florent's day came around Uncle Flo became the happy father of a daughter, whom he insisted on naming Asperula. The word means "a little roguh," and we thought the child's advent a little rough on us.

It was all the result of my little plan, and my brother-in-law has never forgiven me.

A HEART'S SACRIFICE.

Years ago in the little village of Trent there lived an old man and his only daughter, a beautiful girl. She was the admiration of all the village folks, and the poor and sick loved her dearly, for she was a ministering angel in their midst. She "wept with those who wept, and rejoiced with those who rejoiced."

Old M. Garceau loved his daughter Reine, and she doubly returned his affection. One morning early in spring the old man called Reine into his study and told her he had very important information to impart to her.

"Renie, darling," he began, "I shall soon quit this earthly abode. I shall soon die and leave my poor daughter all alone in this great wicked world."

"Oh, father, do not speak so," said Renie, embracing him.

"But," (gently disengaging her,) "It must come soon, daughter. I am an old man, but I would willingly die if I only knew my darling was provided for; no, do not interrupt me, Renie, hear me out. A young nobleman, M. de Rives by name, has asked for your hand, and I have promised him that you shall marry him. Your heart is free, daughter; you will soon learn to love him."

Renie turned deathly pale.

"Oh, father, I love another; he is only a poor artist, but I love him passionately. I have money enough for both."

M. Garceau grew very angry and stormed up and down the room in a passsonate rage, uttering threats, curses and maledictions against poor Renie's artist lover. Then Renie rose, and going up to her father, kissed him fondly.

"I will do as you wish, father," she said, and quietly left the room.

Two months later, one early June morning. The little village of Trent is all excitement, poor and rich are astir, all have turned out to do honor to beautiful Renie Garceau. The little church is packed to the door with an expectant throng.

A hush falls on the expectant multitude as Renie, leaning on her father's arm, enters the church and approaches the altar. She is intensely pale, though calm and composed. She responds clearly to all questions put her. When the words are spoken which make them man and wife, without one sign or word of warning beautiful Renie de Rives falls at her husband's feet, heartbroken—dead.

Weichel Sticks.

The fragrant German weichel sticks, now so popular for canes and umbrella handles, are cut from a wild cherry which, dealers say, grows only in the Black Forest. The natural tendency of the wood is to grow crooked and gnarled. In order to get straight sticks the German peasants build frames around the trees and train the young shoots upon them, fastening strings to the ends of the shoots, passing them over pulleys and attaching weights. The weights are very slight at first, but are increased as the branches grow stronger. A tension is thus produced which insures that the branch will grow straight.

Letter from Hon. James W. Husted

Hon. James W. Husted, who is now serving his sixth term as speaker of the assembly of the state of New York, writes:

STATE OF NEW YORK, ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, Albany, Jan. 16, 1890.

I desire once more to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for twenty-five years past, and can conscientiously commend them as the best external remedy that I have known. Years ago, when thrown from a carriage and seriously injured, I gave them a thorough trial. In a very short time the pain that I was suffering disappeared, and within a week I was entirely relieved. On another occasion, when suffering from a severe cough which threatened pulmonary difficulties, which I was recommended to go to Florida to relieve, I determined to test the plasters again. I applied them to my chest and between the shoulder blades, and in less than a fort night was entirely cured. On still another occasion when suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulder to such an extent that I could scarcely raise my arm, I again resorted to the plasters, and with in a few days the rheumatism entirely disappeared. I have them constantly by me, whether at home or abroad. My family as well as myself have found them to be a sovereign remedy, both for external and internal troubles. I never had but one kidney difficulty in my life, and the applications of the plasters cured me in a week. I desire, as I said before, to bear my testimony in a public way to their efficacy, and I know of no better way of doing it than by giving you my personal experience."

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentations. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

ALLCOCK'S CORN AND BUNION SHIELDS effect quick and certain relief.

CONDITION OF WINTER WHEAT.

From 20 to 70 Per Cent Will Be Plowed in Illinois.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The following crop summary will be printed in the Farmer's Review of this week:

"The condition of winter wheat has not changed materially within the last two weeks. In many of the States a considerable portion of the winter wheat acreage will be plowed. In Illinois 75 per cent will be plowed in Sangamon and Moultrie counties; 50 per cent in Champaign, Christian, Macoupin, Pike, and Vermillion counties, and an average of more than 20 per cent in fifteen other counties. In Vermillion county, Indiana, 75 per cent will be plowed, and twenty other counties 10 to 30 per cent will be plowed.

"In Ohio eleven correspondents report that 10 to 25 per cent of the acreage will be plowed. In six counties in Missouri 10 to 25 per cent will be plowed. Very little will be turned under in Kansas and only a small amount in Kentucky. A few correspondents in Michigan and Wisconsin report that 25 to 50 per cent of the winter wheat acreage will be plowed. Wheat in Kansas has suffered from drought and the high winds during the last two weeks.

"An excess of moisture is reported in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Some seeding has been done in Illinois, but work has been retarded in many counties by the wet weather. On this account little or no seeding has been done in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and Wisconsin. In Minnesota, Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, where the condition of the soil has been more favorable for spring work, seeding is nearly finished, and in Kansas farmers have begun planting corn.

"We summarize the reports of our correspondents relative to the condition of winter wheat as follows: Illinois, 75 per cent; Indiana, 72; Ohio, 86; Missouri, 86; Kentucky, 88; Kansas, 93; Michigan, 70; Wisconsin, 79.

H. B. STONE STEPS OUT.

Resignation of the Second Vice President of the "Q" Railroad.

CHICAGO, April 16.—H. B. Stone, Second Vice President of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company, has tendered his resignation to take effect June 1. He retires from the railroad business to become President of the Chicago Telephone company and the Central Union Telephone company of this city, succeeding to that position George Phillips, who died over a year ago.

Since President Phillips' death Norman Williams has been acting president of the two companies, but that gentleman has asked to be released owing to a pressure of outside duties occasioned by his appointment as one of the executors of the Crerar estate. The choice of a permanent president fell upon Mr. Stone, who has had the matter under advisement for several weeks and has finally decided to accept the offer.

It is not known who will be Mr. Stone's successor as second vice-president of the Burlington, as the matter has not yet been considered by the board of directors. Should the usual policy of the company in regard to promotion be followed out in this instance E. P. Ripley would probably be designated to fill the vacancy, as he succeeded Mr. Stone as general manager.

INDIANS ON THE WAR-PATH.

Trouble Expected at the Cheyenne Agency in South Dakota.

PIERRE, S. D., April 16.—A runner from Cheyenne, about seventy miles west of here, on the reservation, announces that a band of Indians are on the war-path and are giving the agent at that place considerable difficulty. Chief Big Foot, with a band of about forty others, refuse either to take up land or to vacate for settlers.

The agent requested him to do one or the other, and Big Foot commenced to make trouble. Troops were sent for to Fort Meade. Two companies of infantry and three of cavalry were dispatched to the scene, and have succeeded in cornering the Indians, and are awaiting orders as to their disposition.

It is probable that the whole band will be removed from the reservation. Big Foot refuses to capitulate and serious trouble is apprehended.

Scratched 28 Years

Body Covered with Scales. Itching Terrible. Suffering endless. No relief. Doctors and medicines fail. Speedily Cured by Cuticura at a cost of $5.

If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in spots not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring worm, psoriasis, etc. I took....and......Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura remedies too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of Cuticura, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose, I am all well. I scratched twenty eight years, and it got to be a second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

THE MISSISSIPPI RISING.

Four New Breaks Reported—Levee "Beavers" Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 16.—Reports received here show that the Mississippi river has risen fifteen points during the last twenty-four hours at all stations from Vicksburg to Baton Rouge, inclusive. The Nita crevasse is now 1,500 feet wide and 8 to 15 feet deep. A West Melville special reports the water in the Atchafalaya river rising steadily. There are four new breaks reported in Bayou la Glause. Yellow bayou levee, eighteen miles north of here, is reported as giving way, and water is running over two miles of the levee a few miles above Turner's bayou.

Two negroes, believed to be levee "beavers," were killed by guards on the line of the Luna county (Miss.) levees yesterday.

THE HANSON COMPANY.

Hon. J. J. R. Pease's Proposition to Donate the Building Site.

To the Editor.

Some of my friends seem to think that my offer of a site for the Hanson Company, ill-timed, etc., and that it may have a bad effect. I sincerely trust and hope not.

I attended the first public meeting in relation to the organization of the company. I then made an offer of a site for the factory upon the same land I now propose to donate. No person present at that meeting objected to the site.

Inasmuch as my offer was the first, and so stated in the papers, I see no harm now in calling the attention of the public to it. But in any event I trust I shall not be in any way an obstruction to the enterprise. Yours truly,
J. J. R. PEASE.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

The Evil Doers Who Stood Before Judge Patterson To-Day.

The case of the state against Smith Wright, which was on trial in the municipal court yesterday, was ended late in the afternoon by the judge discharging the plaintiff. He was charged with selling intoxicating liquor without a license.

Wm. Canary was before the court charged with being drunk and disorderly. It was the outcome of a little family row last evening. He plead guilty and was sentenced to five days in jail.

A PROPOSITION.

Some Good Reasons Why It Should Not Be Entertained.

The following proposition was handed the Gazette for publication this morning, and also the note of explanation from Mr. Pease found in another column. Mr. Pease states that this is a duplicate of the proposition he wrote for the Recorder, and that the addition concerning the offer on lots was made without his knowledge or consent:

Mr. Pease's Proposition.

"A location for the factory of the Hanson Company is hereby offered as a donation.

"The ground is on block two (2) of Pixley & Shaw's second addition, having three hundred feet front on rail way right of way, and extending 120 feet easterly from the front.

"A permanent supply of water and gas can be obtained as the water company's pipes and gas pipes are near. Two hydrants already placed near said grounds.

"All lumber, brick, etc., may be landed from the railway cars immediately upon the location offered, which must lessen the cost of erecting buildings very materially.

"In case this offer is accepted work upon the buildings may be commenced to-morrow if desired."

April 15th, 1890,
J. J. R. PEASE.

The foregoing is the proposition authorized by me to be published.
J. J. R. P.

The Gazette regrets that Mr. Pease should permit himself to appear at the present time in the attitude of a bidder for the location of the Hanson Furniture Company. There are two reasons why his offer could not be accepted. First, because the proposition made by another party and endorsed so heartily by the citizens, covers both the Hall and Hanson enterprises; one hinging on the other. The Hanson stockholders receive a cash donation of $5,000 or its equivalent in a building, and a tract of land, probably two acres, with sidetrack furnished, worth at least $2,000 more. Should the Hanson Co. entertain another proposition, the Hall Co. would locate in Rockford, where a liberal proposition is open for them until the first of May. It will be readily seen that it will be suicidal to the interests of the city as well as to the interests of the Hansons to entertain another proposition.

The second reason is, that the offer made by Mr. Pease cannot be considered as an endowment. Lots on the railroad in the location indicated, would be well paid for sold at one hundred dollars each; put $6,000 in cash with it and then the other proposition is better, because it includes ample ground, room and side tracks.

The Gazette believes that the day is not far distant when all the land along the railroad and on the hill in the second ward will be in good demand for manufacturing and residence purposes. It certainly will be if the Hanson and Hall companies are put on their feet.

As citizens we have worked harmoniously to this end. Let us stand by the original proposition and when success crowns the effort, other enterprises of magnitude will readily be found to occupy vacant land in various parts of the city.

Why the Recorder should take the liberty to add to the proposition made by Mr. Pease is a question that the Gazette does not attempt to explain, and should be considered a breach of confidence not practiced in decent journalism. If the paper has any influence it would be more creditable to lend it to booming the city, than in trying to bolster up an impractical scheme. Mr. Pease is certainly entitled to an apology.

ENJOYING THE SUNSET.

How a Janesville Lawyer Made a Mistake and Stayed at Whitewater.

A good story is told of a prominent attorney of this city. He had been to Witewater on law business, and was figuring on getting home on the first train as he had important business here as well. He finished the work and started for the depot, and was soon seated comfortably in the smoking car with a cigar in his mouth and a good democratic newspaper in his hand. When the train reached Milton Junction, it was necessary for Janesville passengers to change, and there are several trains there at a time. The attorney picked up his grip, and after walking around the platform a few minutes, climbed on the train and again began to read the paper. Imagine his surprise, when the brakeman stuck his head in the car and yelled "Whitewater!" The attorney had got on the wrong train—and in half an hour from the time of starting, was back at the starting point.

A CHARMIC SUPPER.

The Rectory Society of Christ Church at Kenilworth Last Night.

The ladies of the Rectory Society of Christ church gave a novel supper at their rooms in Kenilworth block last evening. The menu was especially fine and a large number partook of the appetizing spread. The ladies had nearly all been pupils at the cooking school, and their viands showed the benefit of the instruction received: The dishes were many and varied. At one corner of the room was an orange tree in full bloom and loaded with ripe fruit. The oranges were very cleverly made and were sold at various prices. Each one contained something of equal value of the price paid. Mr. W. H. Greenman and Mrs. Sarah H. Carrington presided over the tree and sold a good number of the oranges. It was a very pleasant affair and the ladies made a good sum thereby.

THE WEATHER.

THE MAY BRETONE COMPANY.

They Play "Zip, the Child of the Mountain" Last Night.

A good sized audience was present at Lappin's Opera House last evening to see "Zip, the child of the Mountain," as played by the May Bretonne Company. Their rendition of this thrilling play was most excellent, and gave the best of satisfaction to the audience. It was a change from the other plays in their repertoire and is full of climaxes and chances for effective work for the actors.

Miss Bretonne took the part of "Zip." This was a new character for her, but showed conclusively that she can play the rollicking young girl as well as the staid old lady.

O. E. Hallam, as the old farmer, and as Jim Roberts made more friends than ever.

Miss Rose Stillman, as "Mary Ann O'Neil," was an excellent Irish woman.

George Robinson, as "Arthur Munson a fearless Scoundrel," was as cruel as a man could be.

Laura Howard, as "Squire Clifton's daughter," and Mr. John D. O'Hara, as "Squire Clifton" were both excellent pieces of work.

Clark Comstock, as "Ed. Britton," another villain and confederate of Muson's, was also good.

G. H. Eldon, as "Mike O'Neil," carried the audience away as usual.

The bill to-night is "Lord Arlington's Daughter."

The Cosmopolitan.

Miss Bisland's account of her rapid trip around the world, which excited such general interest at the time, begins in the Cosmopolitan for April, with a number of illustrations made from photographs taken en route, and from drawings from Robert Blum. An excellent portrait of Miss Bisland is one of the illustrations.

An express package recently arrived at the German Consulate of New York for Mr. Poultney Bigelow, the author of the article on the German Army in the April number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine. When opened, it proved to be two large volumes, handsomely bound, one of them inscribed in the handwriting of the young Emperor, who is now attracting the attention of the world by his efforts to improve the condition of the laboring man. The inscription was affectionate and proved that a man, engaged in the cares of great empires, can turn aside and recollect the friendship of his youth. The handwriting was firm and perhaps indicative of the traits of the distinguished German Kaiser. His portrait, which appears as the frontispiece of the April number, introducing Mr. Bigelow's article, was drawn from a photograph which had also been presented to Mr. Bigelow by the Emperor.

Sheriff Babcock's Skill with an Air Gun—Personal and News Items.

Miss Cora Olin died on Friday, and was buried Sunday at two p. m.

Geo. C. Babcock, sheriff, sold the Owen mill property on forclosure of a mortgage, to John S. Jackson, for $1,500, on Saturday afternoon in front of the bank of Evansville. Mr. Babcock while in town showed his skill as being a crack shot with an air gun. We pity the prisoner who ever attempts to get away from him.

The Driving Association met Friday night and elected L. C. Brewer president, M. H. Potter secretary, and M. D. Wilder treasurer.

Levi Knepper was appointed street commissioner at the last board meeting.

Look out for a two column account of a certain innocent electric light pole before long.

A Necessity of Health.

It is a prime necessity of health that the action of the bowels should be kept regular. But the way to overcome a temporary fit of constipation, or to remedy chronic costiveness, is not to deluge the stomach and drench the bowels with purgatives of violent and painful action. The happy medium between an inoperative and violent cathartic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which acts just sufficiently upon the bowels to relax them, without pain, and which being a wholesome tonic, as well as aperient, has the effect of strengthening both them and the stomach, and promoting the well being of the whole internal economy. The removal of bile from the blood, increased activity of the liver, usually dormant in cases of costiveness, and sound digestion follows the use of this beneficent medicine, as thorough and genial in its effects as it is safe and pure in composition. Rheumatism, fever and ague, kidney troubles and debility are also remedied by it.

RUMORS OF A LAKE DISASTER.

A Propeller Reported Foundered with at Least Twenty Persons.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 16.—A report has just reached here that the propeller City of New York has foundered near Manitowoc, on Lake Michigan. She was known to have had at least twenty persons on board, and the greatest fears are felt here in regard to her fate. It is rumored in Sheboygan, about twenty miles from Manitowoc, that two boats that left the propeller were swamped and probably eight of the occupants were drowned.

Highwaymen Routed by a Farmer.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, April 16.—Last evening Dan Wilson, a farmer, was assaulted by highwaymen as he was returning from the city. In a secluded place in the road two men stopped him and asked for a ride. It was granted, and as soon as they were in the wagon Wilson was struck from behind and knocked off his seat, but not senseless. He had a revolver and made such good use of it that the men jumped to save themselves. The team ran away, but Wilson got safely home on foot and unhurt.

SCHOOL GIRLS.

The Daily Exercise of the Public School System of Instruction.

The average school girl, declares the Christian Register, rises only in time to eat a hurried breakfast and reach school at 9. The girls under twelve, who are not the ones to break down, are not too dignified to romp at recess and fill their lungs with fresh air every day. Those above twelve or thirteen rarely have a breath of outside air from 9 till 2 in the afternoon. They eat their luncheons curled up in heaps in comfortable corners, if they can find them. They take little exercise, except in few schools, where they dance for a few minutes. A solitary lunch of cold or "warmed-over" food on reaching home is followed usually by an hour or two of study instead of a brisk walk or other exercise.

There is more study after supper, ambitious girls studying late into the evening. If there is any well established physological fact it is that girls in their teens need an abundance of sleep, and sleep before midnight if possible. The teacher must give a certain amount of home work to their pupils in order to keep them up to the grade, more is the pity; but, since that is a necessity, the fathers and mothers at home should make everything else bend to that and health. There is no one thing so necessary and that might be so easily secured, if firmness were exercised, as a long night of sleep for the fast-growing brain and the girlish frames that are rapidly assuming the proportions of maturity.

HE LEARNED SOMETHING.

A Young Lawyer's Futile Efforts to Carve a Block of Ice Cream.

There was a ludicrous episode at the ladies' reception at the University Club some weeks ago, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The members of the club being in the main still young and gallant, were devoted in their attentions to the fair guests, and to assist in their comfort performed even menial duties.

Among the hardest workers were John Ledyard Lincoln, the young attorney. During the serving up of the luncheon, seeing one of the waiters slowly cutting slices of ice cream from a large block, he impatiently seized the carving knife to accelerate the work. Not knowing that in order to cut the cream it is necessary to dip the knife-blade into boiling water, he whacked away with an air of ponderous knowledge. A moment later he was in the predicament of the inexperienced carver with a tough turkey, but, like a true hero, refused to surrender.

The block of cream rolled, twisted and squirmed, the knife glanced off harmlessly, and Lincoln grew red in the face. After a desperate struggle at last he gave in as conquered and turned over the shapeless block to the grinning waiter, who resumed the carving process with a triumphant air.

Queer Indian Superstitions.

The superstition of the pagan religions is well illustrated by an anecdote related to a traveler in India. One of the numerous temples contains a couple of relics of the god to whom it is dedicated, one of which is the last footprint made on the earth by the god before ascending to heaven. This footprint is in the solid rock, showing that the god gave a vigorous push to start himself well on the way, and is about two feet in length, showing that he was of superheroic stature. The other relic is a tooth of the god. Some years ago the temple was captured by Europeans and the sacred tooth was ground to powder and thrown into the river by the irreverent captors. But the particles of the tooth came together, so the priests say, and assumed their original shape, and the perfect tooth was found reposing on a leaf. It was carefully replaced in the altar of the temple inside of nine golden caskets, where it remains to this day. The blind worshipers believe it to be the original tooth of their god, and their faith is not at all shaken by the fact that naturalists who have examined it pronounce it to be the small molar tooth of the elephant.

How Much Did Judas Receive?

The old dealer in quaint and curious coins who keeps shop in Chicago is a storehouse of information. The further back one can date his query the quicker the old man will talk. He was asked the other day by a man-about-town how much money Judas Iscariot received for betraying the Savior.

"Thirty pieces of silver is the account we have of it," he replied.

"But how much was a piece of silver in those days?" asked the rounder.

"A 'piece' of silver in those days," said the old man promptly, "was the name of a coin; its value, as I trace it, was 13 cents. So that you see the amount which Judas received was $3.90."

Nicholas of Russia Knew What to Say.

Perhaps one of the grandest compliments ever paid by one human being to another was that rendered by Nicholas, the Emperor of all the Russias, to Mlle. Rachel, the celebrated French actress. When she was introduced to him she knelt; but the Emperor raised her, and himself falling on one knee, said: "Thus should the royalty of rank pay homage to the royalty of genius."
